Integration of Talis Aspire Reading Lists Online into current acquisition's workflow processes

Shazara Asgarali-Finn

What are online reading lists?

Online reading lists is a web based tool for accessing reading/resource lists and their contents online. The most popular online reading list software being Talis aspire. Advantages of online reading lists:

 Overall investing in these services gives students quick and easy access to resources which will enhance their student experience with the library

 Improve your student learning experiences, and support teaching and learning strategies

 Also allow staff to meet accessibility and learning strategies

Acquisitions at Perry Library

Overview

- In 2013 Talis Aspire online reading lists was implemented into the acquisitions workflow at LSBU
- We hired 2 temporary staff to create online reading lists from printed reading lists
- Acquisitions immediately began to use Reading lists online to review lists
- ✤ In 2015 we began beta testing Reviews 2 for Talis
- 2017 still documenting workflow procedures for reviewing lists with reading lists online

Acquisitions @ Perry Library

The past - printed lists & module guides

Workflow - manual reviewing

Acquisitions and Metadata at Perry Library

Issues with manual reviewing of lists:

- Each list was reviewed independent of each other
- You needed to spend time sorting and filing reading lists.
- You needed to spend time consulting other websites to check for new editions and student nos.

Acquisitions ຟ Perry Library

- Issues
- Capturing more lists means we budgets are being spent rapidly
- Not all lecturers engage with their lists
- We had to introduce new processes to maintain the integrity of lists

Workflow for online reading lists

Acquisitions ຟ Perry Library

- New workflow procedures
- Subject librarians need to submit template before we start reviewing lists at the start of the semester
- Lists need to rollover for the new year
- Quality checking data with lists
- Running weekly lists core not in catalogue and item importance lists
- Running progress reports for Director and subject librarians
- Running hierarchy updates weekly
